IN THE BADGE!

This week, news came out that the Boy Scouts of America is offering a badge of sorts for video gaming. According to scouting.org, kids can get the belt loop or academic pin by completing tasks such as learning to play a new video game or teaching a friend or relative how to play one. In the spirit of the Scouts, RedEye is handing out its own merit badges for recent newsmakers. AP CONTRIBUTED.

Nothing better to do badge

People all over the world Thursday tried to break into the Guinness World Records book for the most people simultaneously blowing bubbles at multiple locations.

It will be several weeks before organizers know if they surpassed the 34,529 who set the record across England in 2007.

Seriously bad luck badge

The actress who played Thelma Lou on "The Andy Griffith Show" was robbed in the town that inspired the show's idyllic Mayberry setting, after moving to the area to avoid big city crime. Betty Lou Lynn's wallet was stolen at a shopping center in Mount Airy, N.C., the birthplace of Andy Griffith.

YouTube's got standards, huh?

I wonder where YouTube's been hiding its standards all this time.

Last I checked, the video-hosting site was an online orgy of girls-gone-wild fare, violent (sometimes bloody) encounters between Average Joes and Janes, and even some super freaky-deaky activity, the latter of which is available only after over-18 assurances.

But evidently, some YouTube interns found the folders containing the site's so-called standards. Too bad they unearthed them just in time to unnecessarily ban a video the world needs to see.

"Born Free" is M.I.A.'s unflinching exploration of genocide, as exacted upon red-headed, fair-skinned citizens of a fictional state. The characters are awakened from their beds, brutalized and herded onto a bus by cruel government forces.

Though many of us may have seen, and been touched by, real-life stories of genocide in far-off lands, it's quite different to be faced with a world where Marcia Cross of "Desperate Housewives," Cynthia Nixon of "Sex and the City" and Carrot Top could be executed on sight.

"Born Free" forces viewers to question their own apathy, essentially asking: What if this happened to you?

But you can't question much of anything if you can barely find it. And finding it now is a lot more difficult thanks to YouTube.

This week, one of the largest repositories of online videos yanked "Born Free" from the site, not even allowing it to be viewed by the 18-and-older set. The video violates rules that "prohibit content like pornography or gratuitous violence," some YouTube suits told the BBC.

I hope they did that interview over the phone because I can't imagine them uttering those words with a straight face.

YouTube would be as empty as a church on Monday if it didn't offer a steady stream of violence and sex, plenty of it worse than anything in M.I.A.'s artistic statement.

Consider a popular video featuring "Epic Beard" man, who doles out an arse whupping of aforementioned epic proportions after a smaller, mouthier man taunts him on a bus. By the time the clip cuts off, there's blood on the bus seats and floor.

As for sex, it took me less than 20 seconds to call up a raunchy rap favorite: the uncensored version of Nelly's "Tip Drill." In it, the once white-hot rapper swipes a credit card through the jiggling junk-in-the-trunk of a woman who, if she isn't a stripper, should reconsider her calling.

Maybe the mistake M.I.A. made was using violence and brief nudity to make a political statement.

But there's a chance we can appeal this YouBoob move.

Girl Talk could do a mash-up with "Tip Drill" and "Born Free," bringing red-headed strippers into a brand-new video. I'm joking, of course, but if you think about it: "Tip/Free" would have survived YouTube's stringent standards.

STUDENTS SHOT

TWO WOUNDED NEAR HEGEWISCH SCHOOL

Chicago Tribune

As Monica Dixon ran from gunfire Wednesday night, she was so focused on getting to safety that she didn't notice the bullet that ripped through her calf.

Minutes earlier, the eighth-grader, 14, and her brother, 11, had left their house in the Hegewisch neighborhood to walk a friend home. On the way, they met a group of friends outside their school, Clay Elementary, at about 9 p.m.

Monica had just hugged a friend, Preciliano

Garcia, 12, when gunfire erupted from an alley.

"Everybody just ran screaming," Monica said. "I was scared for my life."

As the youths sprinted away, the gunman raced back down the alley and drove off, witnesses said. Preciliano was struck in the side by a bullet.

Investigators said Thursday that they believe the shooting may have been gang-related.

"I think they thought [my friend and I] were somebody else," said Monica, who hid by a fence as the men fled. It was then, Monica said, that she noticed the blood.

"I felt something leaking down my leg and ... saw my leg had been shot," she said.

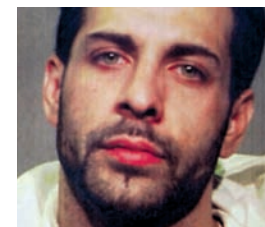

Meanwhile, at a nearby pizza restaurant, Preciliano burst through the door bleeding, accompanied by his older brother and two friends, said manager Leighanne Michko.

The two wounded children were taken to hospitals, treated and released.

Monica's mother, Monica Koulentiky, said she was haunted by how much worse it could have been. "I really didn't think that something like this could happen to my daughter," she said.

Prosecutors: Bucktown suspect smoked blunt

Marcy Cruz smoked a blunt as her boyfriend savagely beat two women Bucktown, prosecutors said Thursday as a judge set her bail at $1 million. Before the April 23 attack, Cruz and Heriberto Viramontes met at a bar for drinks. He told Cruz of his plan to rob someone in Bucktown to get "money and drugs," according to Asst. State's Atty. Erin Antonietti. Cruz pointed to the bar patrons and Viramontes said, "Look at all these drunk [bleeps]," Antonietti said.

Brother of 'Dark Knight' director pleads guilty

"The Dark Knight" director Christopher Nolan's brother has pleaded guilty to having a contraband rope in his jail cell to be used for a planned escape, and obstructing an FBI investigation. Matthew Nolan—accused of taking part in a killing in Costa Rica—appeared before U.S. District Judge William Hibbler in Chicago on Thursday and admitted he made the rope using bedsheets and had a friend clean out his safe in advance of an FBI search.

Running dog off the Eisenhower

The dog who Thursday morning ran the Eisenhower Expressway for the second day in a row has been caught. Three Broadview squad cars managed to trap the dog against a fence near the expressway. The dog—apparently exhausted—promptly fell asleep in the back seat of a police car, which took him to Hillchester Animal Hospital in Hillside. There he was being treated with intravenous fluids for high fever and examined for possible injury, veterinary technician Allison Taylor said.

Sources: Continental board weighs United deal

Associated Press

Continental Airlines Inc. directors met Wednesday to discuss a potential combination with Chicago-based United Airlines, according to people familiar with the situation.

Executives for the two companies have been meeting for more than a week about a deal, which would create the world's largest airline by passenger traffic.

Published reports earlier this week suggested the talks had snagged over price—the value to place on each company's shares in a stock-swap deal. The decision by Continental management to brief its board appeared to indicate that the discussions are not dead.

United and Continental declined to comment. The Continental board meeting was described by two people familiar with the situation but who spoke on condition of anonymity because they were not authorized to comment publicly.

One of the people said the airlines could have a deal to announce by the first part of next week.

Analysts say that United's hubs in Chicago and San Francisco would complement Continental's in the New York City area and Houston. Internationally, United has strong routes in Asia, while Continental has a deep network in Latin America and Europe.

Daley aims for wiener's circle with food bet

Chicago Tribune

Mayor Daley put the city's sausage on the line Thursday, wagering a smorgasbord of Chicago food with his Vancouver counterpart that the Blackhawks will beat the Canucks in a playoff series that starts Saturday night.

One hundred Vienna Beef hot dogs and 100 polish sausages are among the local delicacies riding on the backs of a team Daley said represents the values of Chicago.

"This is a working city, an immigrant city, and there's just something about the Blackhawks that inspires everyone out there," Daley said. "They work at it. They give a hundred percent on the ice, and that's what Chicago's all about."

The mayor was joined by Blackhawks officials at City Hall next to a table heaped with edibles.

The mayor said he has not heard what Vancouver's mayor will put on the line.

Ariz. immigration debate comes to Wrigley Field

Associated Press

Immigrant rights activists chanting "Boycott Arizona" and "Reform, Not Racism" demonstrated Thursday outside Wrigley Field as the Cubs opened a four-game series against the Arizona Diamondbacks.

Protesters are upset over Arizona's new immigration law that makes it a state crime to be in the U.S. illegally and lets police question anyone they suspect of being an illegal immigrant. Activists nationwide have called for a boycott of Arizona tourism and businesses, including its athletic teams.

"We are here today to send a clear message to the state of Arizona that we are going to boycott" until lawmakers repeal the immigration law and stop criminalizing immigrants, said Pastor Jose Landaverde of Our Lady of Guadalupe Anglican Church in Chicago, who was among the more than three dozen protesters outside Wrigley Field. A small plane carrying a banner criticizing the law also circled over Wrigley.

Protesters said they've faxed a letter to Cubs management asking that the team's spring training be moved out of Arizona. Cubs spokesman Peter Chase said the team was declining comment.

Immigration reform groups said they targeted the Diamondbacks, in part, because the team's owners have supported Republican politicians who backed the Arizona law. The team said in a statement that isn't the case.

"Although D-backs' Managing General Partner Ken Kendrick has donated to Republican political candidates in the past ... Kendrick personally opposes State Bill 1070," the team said.

Diamondbacks players and coaches had little to say about the issue Thursday beyond a few wisecracks.

FBI releases 'Double Dip Bandit' bank robber photos

The FBI on Thursday released surveillance photos of a bank robber dubbed the "Double Dip Bandit" who is suspected in six Chicago-area bank heists committed since March. The robber is described as a white man 35 to 40 years old, 5-foot-11 to 6-foot-2, dark hair, slight goatee or mustache, wearing a black "Guinness" baseball cap, sunglasses, and a dark-colored jacket and dark clothing. More information: bandittracker.chicago.com.

Sheriff opposes sale of Burr Oak Cemetery

Cook County Sheriff Tom Dart on Thursday said he opposed the pending sale of Burr Oak Cemetery to a group of local business leaders. He said he would "demand" a stop to the sale, but did not say how. At a bankruptcy court hearing earlier this week, the sale was approved. A follow-up inquiry by sheriff's investigators revealed the new owners want to conduct burials in an area Dart designated as "Crime Scene 1" during last summer's criminal case there in which four employees were charged with digging up graves and reselling plots.

City shuts Big Sam's

Mayor Daley's Dumpster Task Force has closed Big Sam's Food & Liquor, 1636-1638 W. 69th St., due to an active infestation of rats. Task Force inspectors visited Big Sam's on Thursday to follow up on a complaint about conditions at the liquor and packaged goods store, city officials said. More than 300 rat droppings were found on the premises, and multiple holes and openings permitted rats easy passage in and out of Big Sam's, according to a statement from the city's Department of Streets and Sanitation.

MASSIVE OIL SPILL WASHES ASHORE ALONG GULF COAST

8 VENICE, La. An oil spill that threatened to eclipse even the infamous Exxon Valdez disaster spread out of control with a faint sheen washing ashore along the Gulf Coast on Thursday night as fishermen rushed to scoop up shrimp and crews spread floating barriers around marshes.

The spill was bigger than imagined—five times more than first estimated—and closer. Faint fingers of oily sheen were reaching the Mississippi River delta, lapping the Louisiana shoreline.

"It is of grave concern," David Kennedy of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, told The Associated Press. "I am frightened. This is a very, very big thing. And the efforts that are going to be required to do anything about it, especially if it continues on, are just mind-boggling."

HOW IT STARTED

BP was operating the Deepwater Horizon, which was drilling in 5,000 feet of water about 40 miles offshore when it exploded last week. Eleven crew members are missing and presumed dead, and officials say 5,000 barrels of oil a day now are spewing from the well.

The oil slick could become the nation's worst environmental disaster in decades, threatening hundreds of species of fish, birds and other wildlife along the Gulf Coast, one of the world's richest seafood grounds, teeming with marine life. Thicker oil was in waters south and east of the Mississippi delta about 5 miles offshore.

The leak from the ocean floor proved to be far bigger than initially reported, contributing to a growing sense among many in Louisiana that the government failed them again, just as it did during Hurricane Katrina. President Obama dispatched Cabinet officials to deal with the crisis.

Cade Thomas, a fishing guide in Venice, worried that his livelihood will be destroyed. He said he did not know whether to blame the Coast Guard, the federal government or oil company BP PLC.

"They lied to us. They came out and said it was leaking 1,000 barrels when I think they knew it was more," he said.

Oh, you're cool, Vancouver.

I suppose just because a couple of movies were filmed in your town you think you're all modern and cosmopolitan. Well, think again. If you're Hollywood North, we're Hollywood East. Which actors hail from your town? Who? Well we sent Bill Murray, John Cusack, Vince Vaughn and some others to the majors. Did you say something?

I'm told you grew out of an area originally called Gastown. Please. Come to Chicago on Friday or Saturday nights. I'll show you Gastown.

I might add we've sent another player to the big stage. Maybe you've heard of him. His name is Barack Obama, and he's the 44th president of the United States. How many U.S. presidents have come out of Vancouver, may I ask? Oh, none. Exactly. I rest my case.

Enough funny business. This is about hockey. Even though it's a Canadian sport, our franchise was one of the "Original Six" and was founded in 1926. That's pre-Depression, pre-war, pre-electricity, pre-everything.

That great outpost of Canadian sport, Vancouver, on the other hand, got themselves into the big leagues in ... oh ... 1970. Welcome to the party; we started without you.

Let's talk nicknames. A Blackhawk is a warrior. Enough said. A Canuck is merely a slang term for a Canadian. Sorry, we don't have slang terms for Americans or people from here. We respect ourselves too much.

Finally, nice mascot. I'm told he's a whale named "Fin." Well, if you went to my school growing up and were a dude named "Fin," you wouldn't be alive today.

What would happen in what's going to happen to these Canucks. A pummeling.

GRUDGE REMATCH

VANCOUVER HAS PAYBACK IN MIND IN REPEAT OF SEMIFINAL SERIES

Associated Press

Blackhawks forward Andrew Ladd had a smile on his face and a hockey player's gash on his nose Thursday as he downplayed his feud with Vancouver's Ryan Kesler.

"Everything we are trying to do in here trumps any personal vendettas or whatever you have," Ladd said, two days before the teams start their rematch of last year's Western Conference semifinals.

Kesler called Ladd a "coward" earlier this year after they got into a fight during a game in Vancouver. Kesler said Ladd crosschecked him during the playoffs a year ago when he wasn't looking and broke his nose.

It's just one of several run-ins between the teams during the last two years, a rivalry that was heightened last season by the Blackhawks' six-game playoff victory.

"It just seems we got a lot of different personalities that clash, maybe," Ladd said.

The Canucks aren't very fond of the song that blares across the United Center every time the Blackhawks score a goal. And they heard it plenty last season in Game 6 when the Blackhawks clinched the series with a 7-5 victory that featured a hat trick from Patrick Kane and left Vancouver goalie Roberto Luongo in tears.

"For us, we love hearing that song, and I don't think other teams like hearing it," Ladd said. "It's no secret that both teams don't like each other, but that's fine."

Kesler, who was an Olympic teammate of Kane's on the U.S. squad that lost to Canada in the gold medal game, said what the Canucks really want is some payback.

"They knocked us out last year," Kesler said. "That has a lot to do with the reason why we want another crack at them."

Among the testy matchups is the goal crease battle between Luongo and the Blackhawks' Dustin Byfuglien, who will try to get in Luongo's way and his head. Last season there was a minibrawl with a couple of fights, one that included Alex Burrows of the Canucks pulling the hair of Blackhawk Duncan Keith.

So, expect a hair-raising series. And this time the Blackhawks have home ice. "It's going to be physical right off the opening faceoff," Vancouver's Shane O'Brien predicted. "It's not going to take very long for us not to like each other because frankly we don't already like each other."

Blackhawks captain Jonathan Toews, who missed six games this season after he was flattened by Canucks defenseman Willie Mitchell in a game at the United Center, said the give-and-take between the teams is to be expected.

"They have certain players who will try and antagonize and get in our heads and it's the same way the other way around," Toews said. "Every player has a role and a purpose. ... The physical part and the skill part and obviously the chatter and everything that is said on and off the ice is part of an intense playoff series."

As a keen observer of the Blackhawks-Predators first-round series, it appeared at times Chicago got caught up in a sense of entitlement. Dare I say a tad cocky?

I know the Hawks' playoff motto is "One Goal." Still, that's no reason for a prolific goal scorer like Marian "Play-off Poison" Hossa to take that literally.

Right now, I bet Dustin Byfuglien's getting all prettied up in front of the mirror for his man-date Saturday with Canucks goaltender Roberto Luongo.

You can't tell me Fugly doesn't have a mad crush on Lu. How else do we explain all those in-crease lap dances/dry-hump sessions he offered up in last year's series. Lose that cloak of shame, Dusty, and just say the words that will set you free.

Not to worry, Hawks fans. It's not about veterans, not when you have a prepubescent superstar like Patrick Kane.

Ah yes, and a child that shall lead them ... into embarrassment!

Loving Patty's fancy new playoff mullet (prematurely thinning business in the front, party in the back)! Finally he has the 'do that matches his off-ice lifestyle. Toss in a white tank top and I believe someone's ready to make their "C.O.P.S." debut.

Speaking of party in the back, I've seen the infamous shirtless limo photo. You know, the one where his questionable conduct finally catches up with his questionable taste in women.

No wonder he's going with the mullet this year. The kid's still a decade away from growing chest hair. Hell, I'm not sure if his nipples have fully formed yet.

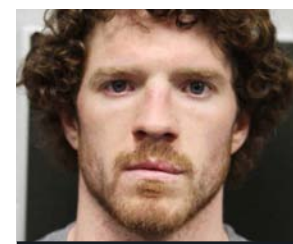

May the best team wear blue.

1 What's Game 1 vs. the Canucks at the United Center gonna sound like?	For every Canucks goal, don't mistake "Vancouver" for booing. Antti Niemi. But, yes, they're booing too.	Like the circus. There are a lot of elephants in the room.	Lots of cheering and crying, like when Kate Gosselin got heaved from "Dancing With the Stars."	Blaring Barry Manilow's "Looks Like We Made It" oughta scare those hoser Canucks off, eh?	Crickets! You know, the same sound Bag Boy hears after butchering a joke.
2 What exactly is up with the Vancouver Green Men?	It's their version of Blue Man Group. Try not to scoff openly.	Just look at them. You can clearly see what's up.	They're rejected Masters mascots.	I'm not a big fan of grown men who dress in zany costumes for attention.	Nothing now that they've been asked to wear cups.
3 How could the Blackhawks get Canucks goalie Roberto Luongo to cry again?	Remind him that Canada's greatest export is Pamela Anderson.	Send him to a Cubs game. People are always crying there.	Just whisper in his ear, "Hey Roberto, we cloned Dustin Byfuglien."	Constant scoring, a face full of Byfuglien and a "canuck-le" sandwich should do it.	By bribing espn.com to give the edge in goal in the series to the Hawks. Hmmm?
4 What would your Kentucky Derby hat consist of?	A cowboy hat with Guts McTavish's head mounted on the front. Oh, I went there, Guts.	Jo Noah. Hope it fits. There's a cap for that.	It will look just like the Yankees hat Phil stole from Justin Bieber.	The Colonel's secret recipe of 11 herbs and spices.	I'd ooze class strolling Churchill Downs in a fez made out of Joel Quenneville's pornstache.
5 What'll Tiger Woods hear from the gallery now that he doesn't have Masters security around?	As Tiger's caddy hands him a ball: "Hey, shouldn't yours be painted blue?"	"I asked for a tip, not a deposit."	"Mickelson was always our favorite, anyway."	Nothing, as his therapy has taught him to be the "master of his own domain."	YOU'RE THE MAN!!! (Who slept with my cocktail waitress daughter.)

TIGER TAMED

Woods way out of sync, shoots 2 over at Quail Hollow

CHARLOTTE, N.C. It was a quiet start for Tiger Woods—both inside and outside the ropes—as golf's No. 1 draw began his second tournament of his post-scandal days with a 2-over-par 74 at the Quail Hollow Championship on Thursday.

Tiger Woods opened with a birdie at Quail Hollow's par-5 10th hole, but gave it back two holes later when he couldn't save par after a poor approach shot at No. 12. He never got himself in the red numbers the rest of the day.

"I didn't hit the ball very good at all today," Woods said after a round that left him nine shots behind leader Bo Van Pelt. "I had a two-way miss with everything—two balls in the water, pretty much struggled all day."

It was frustrating enough that he opted to put the day behind him and not work out the kinks on the practice range. "The hell with it," he said.

It was the first over-par round in Woods' return from the self-imposed layoff that followed revelations of a string of mistresses. It also marked just the 19th time in his professional career that he has finished any round in 80th or worse.

On his way to the 16th tee, Woods actually returned a fist-bump to a fan who reached over the rope.

The enthusiasm grew as Woods chipped away with birdies. One spectator couldn't resist the "Get in the hole!" outburst as the golfer hit 3-iron from the rough at the par-5 seventh hole.

All wasn't completely forgotten, however. Along the same fairway, one young woman watched Woods walk past and remarked to a friend, "He has no wedding ring."

She didn't realize that nearly every pro removes his jewelry before teeing off.

After Woods birdied No. 8, his path to the ninth tee featured one woman in a low-cut blouse who leaned over the rope to call out some encouragement. "He made eye contact!" a male fan shouted to her after Woods passed.

River North newbies

Switch up your post-work practices at these fresh hangouts

By Lisa Arnett

There's not a 'hood in the city that draws as much after-work action as ever-reliable River North. The range of spots—from sporty Mother Hubbard's to chi-chi Epic to sceney Sunda—is as far-flung as ever, and the fact that it's likely close to your office never hurts, either. But before you lug that laptop case to the same old place, read up on these new entries.

Benny's Chop House
DAN PETERSON PHOTO FOR METROMIX

Dos Diablos

15 W. Hubbard St. 312-245-5252

This colorful fajita-and-margarita palace looks more sophisticated than you'd expect given the relative cheese factor of the menu (see: "Not so holy" guacamole, chocolate tamales and the eat-the-three-pound-chimi-and-get-your-name-on-the-wall shtick).

Try it if: You're picky about what tequila's poured in your 'rita; you don't mind a 50-50 ratio of tourists to locals; you prefer simple Tex-Mex to authentic and/or upscale Mexican spots such as Mercadito, Zocolo and the Rick Bayless empire.

Sable Kitchen & Bar

505 N. State St. 312-755-9704

At the Hotel Palomar's sleek gastrolounge, you can sip and socialize in the bar area to a soundtrack of shaking ice or retreat to the dining room for a more secluded sit-down meal.

Try it if: You love the Violet Hour's lengthy cocktail menu but prefer a livelier scene; you need a fancy but fun new date spot; you're searching for the perfect vermouth to go in your classic gin martini.

Benny's Chop House

444 N. Wabash Ave. 312-626-2444

What we initially wrote off as just another uppity steakhouse is drawing suit-clad young professionals to its stylish lounge with tall, creative cocktails and a roundup of bar snacks with surprisingly reasonable prices.

Try it if: You appreciate a bartender who knows his/her craft beer; you think the $12 cocktails at other lounges are just too dang small.

The Shady Lady

712 N. Clark St. 312-624-9008

This River North bar features pop-up, sideshow-style performances on a teeny stage, plus late-night food faves resurrected from long-closed Iggy's and a "speakeasy" cocktail lounge in the basement.

Try it if: You still have late-night longings for those addictive wings from Iggy's; you're not yet sick of bars calling themselves speakeasies; you can tolerate some service issues as the staff gets settled.

Blue Frog 22

22 E. Hubbard St. 312-527-1200

Divey karaoke den Blue Frog Bar & Grill on LaSalle Street is so consistently packed on weeknights that management never could accommodate requests for large parties. The solution? A second, larger location on the other side of River North.

Try it if: You love the original Blue Frog but work east of Michigan Avenue; you look your best in the glow of neon beer signs; you could use an upgrade from your usual River North dives, Rossi's and Snickers.

@mmxmusic question of the week asked:

Billy Corgan and Courtney Love are at war on Twitter. Does this at all change your opinion of either one?

These are some of our favorite answers from Twitter and Facebook. Follow @mmxmusic and watch for next week's question!

Twitter

@brianpmaguire

i just want to know how Billy Corgan got @Billy as his twitter name.

@cassiopeia623

2 90s rock personalities trying to make themselves relevant with today's new media. who cares?

@dingmire

They've both been irrelevant since '99.

@helloBos

wow talk about battle of the has beens.

Facebook

Jonathan Fin

i went from hating one to loathing both...

Becky Suess

It changed my opinion on both of them. Not even my teenage cousinsicker online. They both need to grow up.

Delanie Delagarza

NO but the fact that he's dating Jessica Simpson Does !!!!

Mary Higbe Cunningham

Nope. It just solidifies my opinion of them.

Ace Mann

Two really sad people. Well, I still got the old pumpkin tunes to remind me of when Billy really mattered.

SHAWN PHILLIPS

MAKING THE CUT

Will summer movie season be a dream or a nightmare?

Welcome to summer movie season, also known as the land of remakes and sequels.

"Iron Man 2," "Sex and the City 2," "Toy Story 3" and "The Twilight Saga: Eclipse" are hotly anticipated flicks, but maybe this summer won't be more of the same.

Studios also are launching, cough, original projects such as the video game adaptation "Prince of Persia: The Sands of Time," the "SNL"-character inspired "MacGruber," the latest thriller from "The Dark Knight" director Christopher Nolan, "Inception," and the Tom Cruise/Cameron Diaz action-romance "Knight and Day."

How do this season's top movies look? Verdicts ahead.

MATT PAIS IS THE METROMIX MOVIES PRODUCER.

Warning!

Before you can enjoy the kickoff of summer movie season beginning with next week's "Iron Man 2," you'll have to survive Freddy's return in the remake of "A Nightmare on Elm Street." Read more on Page 37.

IRON MAN 2 *May 7Reason to care: First movie ruled.Outlook: Doubly awesome. Robert Downey Jr. returns to beat more baddies as egotistical Tony Stark, and Mickey Rourke steps in as a villain. Don Cheadle takes over for the bland Terrence Howard, and Scarlett Johansson's on hand in something tight and stretchy. What could be bad?ROBIN HOOD *May 14Reason to care: No tights for director Ridley Scott ("Gladiator") and Russell Crowe. This "Robin Hood" could feature the toughest merry men ever seen on the big screen.Outlook: Is it necessary to make this movie again? No. Will the sword-fighting action probably be entertaining? Yes.MACGRUBER *May 21Reason to care: Somehow this one-joke "Saturday Night Live" skit always earned a chuckle. Fans love Will Forte's amusingly clueless riff on MacGyver.Outlook: A combination of funny and dumb, but as long as it has a few big laughs—and it probably will—this extended skit will work well enough as a feature-length movie. Come on, Val Kilmer's the villain.SEX AND THE CITY 2 *May 27Reason to care: One of the summer's most anticipated movies—no, not by me. This sequel follows on the high heels of Carrie, Samantha, Miranda and Charlotte's big-screen debut two years ago, which, actually, wasn't that bad.Outlook: Adding Miley Cyrus to anything is never a plus. Alice Eve and Penélope Cruz are a bit more welcome. Nevertheless, can't these gals get their happy ending and go away?PRINCE OF PERSIA: THE SANDS OF TIME *May 28Reason to care: A shaggy Jake Gyllenhaal returns to blockbusters. His hair looks like he went to the barbershop and said, "Give me the Kate Beckinsale."Outlook: The effects have to be better than the "Mummy" movies, and director Mike Newell helmed my favorite Harry Potter movie ("Goblet of Fire"). Still, meh.THE A-TEAM *June 11Reason to care: This reboot of the '80s TV series is no campy joke. Director Joe Carnahan ("Narc," "Smokin' Aces") will make sure of that.Outlook: Every summer needs a fun action movie. "The A-Team" may or may not be it, but we like the seemingly incongruous cast of Liam Neeson, Bradley Cooper, Jessica Biel, Patrick Wilson, Sharlto Copley and Quinton "Rampage" Jackson. Note: From now on, I also will be going by "Rampage."TOY STORY 3 *June 18Reason to care: With any other studio, we'd think this franchise was being extended for no reason. Pixar wouldn't do that to us, would they?Outlook: It would be great if Pixar can reverse its trend of movies ("Up," "Wall-E") with great first halves and just fine second halves. "Toy Story 3" should be a blast, less because it's in 3-D than because we're happy to see Buzz, Woody and the rest of the gang again.JONAH HEX *June 18Reason to care: Because all comic book movies attract attention. Ditto for movies starring Megan Fox.Outlook: Fox, Josh Brolin, John Malkovich, Michael Shannon, Michael Fassbender and Will Arnett must be the best comic book movie cast in a while. The only other movie director Jimmy Hayward has helmed is "Horton Hears a Who!" but we'll try not to hold that against him.KNIGHT AND DAY *June 25Reason to care: Tom Cruise's first starring role since "Valkyrie" is yet another movie about a woman (Cameron Diaz) who learns her new man (Cruise) is a death-defying international agent. Jeez.Outlook: Despite the overdone premise, this could be the summer's spunkiest action-comedy.GROWN-UPS *June 25Reason to care: The comedy firepower of Adam Sandler, Chris Rock, David Spade and Kevin James, plus supporting roles for Salma Hayek, Maria Bello, Norm MacDonald and Tim Meadows.Outlook: Just because Will Ferrell's not in it doesn't mean the concept of immature man-boys is any less stale. This story about boyhood friends reuniting doesn't look as awful as director Dennis Dugan's "I Now Pronounce You Chuck and Larry," but it's close.THE TWILIGHT SAGA: ECLIPSEJune 30Reason to care: "Twilight" fanatics can't wait to see the vampires versus werewolves saga continue. I can't wait to see if part three will be as terribly boring as "New Moon." Actually, yes I can.Outlook: Working with what's widely regarded as the series' most action-packed book, director David Slade should add more excitement and passion to the proceedings, which are currently in danger of moping viewers to sleep.PREDATORS *July 9Reason to care: The possibility of an addition to the "Predator" franchise that could actually be scary again.Outlook: Adrien Brody, Topher Grace, Walton Goggins and Laurence Fishburne anchor an ultra-cool cast in a film that could be a sleeper hit, if the spooky trailer counts for anything.'Sex and the City 2'
WARNER BROS. PICTURES'Salt'
SONY PICTURESINCEPTION *July 16Reason to care: Writer-director Christopher Nolan already proved his mind-bending powers with "Memento," and he's back in the brain with this sci-fi thriller about dream invasion and dangerous ideas.Outlook: I seriously can't wait for this eye-popping head-scratcher, which I'm betting will best Leonardo DiCaprio's other psychological thriller from this year, "Shutter Island."SALT *July 23Reason to care: Evelyn Salt (Angelina Jolie) is told she's a Russian spy with plans to kill the American president, which is news to her. Chases and explosions result.Outlook: Hooray for more high-profile roles for Chiwetel Ejiofor, who plays the main cop on the case. Otherwise, this looks like a combo of "Wanted" and the "Bourne" movies but less cool.DINNER FOR SCHMUCKS *July 23Reason to care: Paul Rudd is just awesome. And Steve Carell could be a movie star if he keeps making movies as funny as "Date Night." Here Rudd plays a guy wanting a promotion, and Carell is the dopey dude he befriends in order to make fun of him at a high-profile dinner. Outlook: The trailer for this remake of a French comedy is pretty bad, and a whole mess of writers are credited with the script. Plus, the movie's from Jay Roach ("Austin Powers," "Meet the Parents"). Damn.'Robin Hood'

Sounds of Summer

Summer is all about things that go 'boom.' Or 'whoosh.' Or 'thwang.'

ACTION

Killers June 4

Trying to recover from a sudden breakup, Jen Kornfeldt (Katherine Heigl) believes she'll never fall in love again. But she meets the man of her dreams (Ashton Kutcher) on the French Riviera and marries him, without knowing he's an international superspy.

Splice June 4

Genetic researchers (Adrien Brody and Sarah Polley) create a sexy but dangerous hybrid out of human and animal DNA. Sounds like "Species" with a Sundance Festival pedigree.

The Karate Kid June 11

The remake stars Jaden Smith (Will's kid) as a youth who becomes a martial-arts underdog with help from an unorthodox mentor (Jackie Chan).

The Last Airbender July 2

M. Night Shyamalan writes and directs this big-screen movie based on the Nickelodeon animated series "Avatar: The Last Airbender."

The Sorcerer's Apprentice July 16

Nicolas Cage is a master sorcerer in modern-day Manhattan trying to protect the city from his arch-nemesis (Alfred Molina). Jay Baruchel, the hapless suitor in "She's Out of My League," is the sorcerer's reluctant protege.

The Expendables Aug. 13

Sylvester Stallone directs, co-writes and stars in this action picture about mercenaries hired to infiltrate a South American country and overthrow its dictator, only to realize things aren't as they appear. Cast also includes Jason Statham, Jet Li, Dolph Lundgren, Eric Roberts and Steve Austin.

ROMANCE

Just Wright May 14

A physical therapist (Queen Latifah) falls for her star NBA client, who only has eyes for another woman.

Letters to Juliet May 14

A letter to Shakespeare's star-crossed lover stirs up the romantic lives of an American (Amanda Seyfried) and a Brit (Vanessa Redgrave) in Italy.

Charlie St. Cloud July 30

Romantic drama, starring Zac Efron, based on the Ben Sherwood novel "The Death and Life of Charlie St. Cloud." He's an accident survivor forced to see the world in a new way.

Ramona and Beezus July 23

Beverly Cleary's children's best-sellers inspire this tale of a boisterous girl and her big sis (Joey King and Selena Gomez).

Nanny McPhee Returns Aug. 20

Emma Thompson returns as the supernanny, pitching in for the family of an overburdened mom (Maggie Gyllenhaal).

Eat Pray Love Aug. 13

Julia Roberts' latest is based on Elizabeth Gilbert's best-selling memoir and directed by "Glee" co-creator Ryan Murphy. Roberts is a woman on a globe-trotting quest to fill the holes in her soul.

COMEDY

Beastly July 30

A teen take on "Beauty and the Beast" stars Vanessa Hudgens as the key to salvation for a youth (Alex Pettyfer) hideously transformed by a curse.

Step Up 3D Aug. 6

Dance goes 3-D in this music romance about street dancers in a showdown with champion hip-hop hoofers.

FAMILY

Shrek Forever After May 21

Billed as the franchise finale, the fourth "Shrek" spins an "It's a Wonderful Life" nightmare in which the ogre was never born, never met his friends and never married the love of his life. Mike Myers, Cameron Diaz, Eddie Murphy and Antonio Banderas are back as Shrek, Fiona, Donkey and Puss in Boots.

Despicable Me July 9

A 3-D, CGI feature about a villainous character named Gru (voice of Steve Carell) who is plotting to steal the moon. But the arrival of three orphaned girls throws a wrench in his plans.

Cyrus July 9

John C. Reilly is a man trying to start a relationship with a woman (Marisa Tomei) against the wishes of her overprotective son (Jonah Hill).

Middle Men Aug. 6

Luke Wilson, James Caan, Giovanni Ribisi and Gabriel Macht star in this story about the early days of the online adult entertainment business. Based on a true story.

Scott Pilgrim vs. the World Aug. 13

The Switch Aug. 20

Jennifer Aniston is a single woman who decides to have a baby thanks to a charming sperm donor (Patrick Wilson). But, unbeknownst to her, a friend (Jason Bateman) substitutes his own sperm. How could that be? Well, the movie once was called "The Baster."

The Lottery Ticket Aug. 20

A young man (Bow Wow) who wins a $370 million lottery fends off greedy neighbors to collect his prize. With Ice Cube. SOURCES: AP, PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE, MCT

COMEDY

The Other Guys Aug. 6

Will Ferrell joins Mark Wahlberg for this tale of a police accountant partnered with a tough street cop.

Marmaduke June 4

In this live-action tale, Owen Wilson provides the voice of the comic-strip Great Dane as he adjusts to a new life after moving to California.

Get Him to the Greek June 4

A record label up-and-comer (Jonah Hill) must escort an unruly rock legend (Russell Brand) from London to an L.A. gig.

Your picks

RedEye asked its Facebook followers what summer movie they are most excited to see. Most people said "Iron Man 2," but there were some others.

Leigh Johnston: Iron Man 2. Is there any other worthy answer?!

Cassandra T. S. Clegg: hands down, the new A-Team movie.

James Haluska Jr.: Harry Brown—seems to be Michael Caine's most gritty role to date, and it will be interesting to see this veteran and versatile actor in such a different role.

Yesenia Jimenez: Sex and the City 2 and also looking forward to the last installment of the Shrek movie with my son ...

Fard Muhammad: Cemetery Junction ... if it ever gets released in the US.

Mike Lewis: As far as I know, there is only one movie coming out in the next 4 months: Scott Pilgrim v. The World.

Ron Rowland: Inception. Hands down! DiCaprio with Christopher Nolan at the helm. Can't wait!

Korab Bakalli: For a guy movie, I can't wait to see "The Expendables"

Brendan Fraser in 'Furry Vengeance'

SUMMIT ENTERTAINMENT

Since Elmer Fudd apparently wasn't available, Brendan Fraser plays real estate developer Dan, who's out to tear down the forest and build houses. That becomes difficult because, as everyone knows, animals communicate with each other and use an elaborate system of sticks and rocks to punish humans for invading their space.

The buzz: Somehow funny people like Ken Jeong, Angela Kinsey and Samantha Bee agreed to appear in this CGI-enhanced live action travesty. Uh, I mean, director Roger Kumble's highly anticipated follow-up to "College Road Trip."

The verdict: If Fraser still is willing to look himself in the mirror, now would be the time to do so and ask what has become of his career. The actor's unfunny, relentlessly humiliating role in "Furry Vengeance" includes being tipped over in a port-a-potty, accidentally putting on a bra while bathing in tomato juice and a CGI raccoon peeing in his mouth. For good measure, the movie throws in some racist jokes and a senile old woman. Awesome.

'Harry Brown'

Yes, "Harry Brown" is another thriller about vigilante justice, starring Michael Caine as a recent widower fed up with ineffective cops and determined to get vengeance for the murder of his friend. Director Daniel Barber plunges into the depths of society as Harry hunts down the violent young drug dealers putting fear into his neighborhood. In parts the movie feels like a blend of "Taken" and "Gran Torino," but this also is a film that makes humans seem scarier than vampires or zombies ever can be on screen. The city is overcome by cruelty, and only an old ex-Marine dares to track down those invisible bastards in the night. "Harry Brown" is familiar but resonant, armed with the tension of a weapon between the moment it's cocked and when it's fired.

'The Square'

 (R)
"Always has a lot at stake but never slips into melodrama."

'Who Do You Love'

 (NR)
"Same story as 'Cadillac Records,' better movie."

'The Cartel'

 (NR)
"A local news report that goes on forever."

A darker Freddy Krueger is back to terrorize the teens on Elm Street

Jackie Earle Haley plays Freddy Krueger.
WARNER BROS. PICTURES

The Fresno Bee

Jackie Earle Haley knew he had to find the line between the familiar and the new to properly take over the iconic horror figure Freddy Krueger in the relaunch of the "Nightmare on Elm Street" series.

"We had to dish up something the hard-core fans could kinda recognize but yet something I could make my own," Haley said during an interview at WonderCon, the comic book and pop culture convention in San Francisco.

Legions of fans have been scared by the "Elm Street" franchise since its launch in 1984 with Robert Englund's work as the killer who haunts dreams. Haley's preparation was to watch several films in the series, not to copy what Englund had done but to get a sense of the character.

Englund's Freddy often delivered his killing blows with a comic quip. That's different in the new "Nightmare," which opens Friday and has fewer jokes. "It's a darker film," Haley said.

It's so dark, Haley's research also included reading a book about real serial killers. As he read, Haley began to realize Freddy is more like the "character from a campfire story" than any real murderer.

He sees Freddy as representing unstoppable fear.

"I've always felt one of the most vulnerable places you are is when you are lying in your bed asleep. I've been awakened at times by horrific nightmares and this represents those fears," Haley said.

Being cast as Freddy in the remake, which was filmed in and around Chicago, is the latest step in a remarkable acting comeback for Haley. The 38-year-old was 11 when he started working as a professional actor. He hit his peak with two "Bad News Bears" films and the 1979 release "Breaking Away."

In the mid-'80s, Haley's acting career dried up so he turned to directing TV commercials. He returned to acting with a vengeance in 2006 with his Oscar-nominated work in "Little Children."

"I'm of two minds. There's a part of me that knows it's very real," Haley said. "But there is this other side of me that can't believe this is really happening. I'm really a working actor again."

FAST-PAISED 'A Nightmare on Elm Street' R

Freddie Krueger was rocking the blades-for-fingers look long before Johnny Depp made it cool in "Edward Scissorhands." Thing is, part of the reason Robert Englund's Freddy was terrifying in the 1984 original was that for most of the film, we didn't know much about him. In this rushed, stupid remake, Jackie Earle Haley gets top billing as the new Freddy, and the film gives us much more of the burn victim who kills teenagers in their dreams. So the teens in danger, some of whom really look like knockoff versions of Emily Blunt, Robert Pattinson and Kristin Cavallari, become generic character types we don't know well enough to root for. Worse, Freddy's mission takes on a ridiculous similarity to the "Final Destination" franchise. The notion of fearing your own dreams remains chilling, otherwise this impersonal horror flick just feels redundant.

'B.o.B. Presents: The Adventures of Bobby Ray'

B.o.B.

B.o.B., aka Bobby Ray Simmons, goes through a bit of an identity crisis on his debut album. The rapper's Atlanta hip-hop underground roots show in collaborations with T.I. ("Bet I"), but his poppier side connects better, with the breezy "Nothin' on You" hitting No. 1. The experimental "The Kids" with Janelle Monae shines, but the bland "Magic" with Rivers Cuomo stumbles. Who's the real B.o.B.? Maybe finding out is part of the adventure. GLENN GAMBOA, NEWSDAY

Kanye West drops in on 'The Cleveland Show.'

show patrol

CURT WAGNER

WORTH WATCHING 'The Russian House'

8 p.m. Sunday, PBS

In the first of three new "Foyle's War" stories, the grumpy detective uncovers a secret and immoral plan between the British and Soviet governments at the end of WWII.

Kanye jams with Cleveland Jr.

Kevin Michael Richardson still can't believe he rapped with Kanye West.

"It was surreal and a little trippy," he told me earlier this month at the Chicago Comic and Entertainment Expo. "He had his shades on; he was so cool."

Richardson, who voices the character of Cleveland Jr. in Fox's animated "The Cleveland Show," and the Chicago rapper recorded the song in March for "Brotherly Love," which airs at 7:30 p.m. Sunday. West voices a character named Kenny West, an ultra-hip MC who interrupts Cleveland Jr. as he tries to get the attention of a girl named Chenille (Taraji P. Henson).

Kenny starts dropping rhymes, calling him a "lumpy, chunky, booger-eating chump." At first Junior seems timid, but then he launches his own rap: "You think you can rhyme, man your flow is amateur, I'm a nerd I can smoke you in iambic pentameter."

Like Junior, Richardson was intimidated at first to be facing the real West.

"I took a little while to get into the beat, but I matched it and we did it and it came off," he said. "Yeah, it was pretty cool."

Law

Yes, there is a 'Shore' thing

It's unlikely we'll ever see Katrina Law wearing her long hair Snooki-style.

But the gorgeous New Jersey native, who played the slave Mira in Starz's "Spartacus: Blood and Sand" this past season, doesn't deny the reality of cast members on MTV's "Jersey Shore"—at least the guys.

"It's just so funny because everybody in Jersey is all up in arms right now about how this is such a stereotype," she told me Wednesday. "I hate to be the one to set it straight, but I have dated boys that I fully expect to see on 'Jersey Shore.'"

"They took longer to get ready than I did. Their hair was more immaculate. Their nails were manicured. They were spray tanned—the whole nine."

You can see Law—in leather but with no Snooki poof—at 4 p.m. Saturday on WGN when she guest stars as Mord'Sith warrior woman Garen in "Legend of the Seeker."

LiLo's latest

Lindsay Lohan, whose most recent photo shoot has her holding a pistol to her mouth and who has absolutely no filter when it comes to tweeting, doesn't get why people talk about her. "I don't know why I am such a target, but I think there's a big misconception of who I am as a person," she said Wednesday on L.A.'s 102.7 KIIS-FM. Who, me, weird?

Bieber fever

Hundreds of frenzied teenagers mobbed Justin Bieber as he arrived in New Zealand this week, knocking down his mother and stealing his hat as he was rushed through the airport to escape the crazed fans. Leave the Bieb's mom alone, girls. Marauding Huns were better behaved.

Reality show bites

Spencer Pratt of "The Hills" and Snooki's ex, Emilio Masella, are teaming up, people.com reports. Pratt Productions and Masella will work on a new dating show, "Fist Pumping for Love," which will follow the guy who once dated the "Jersey Shore" troll lady, as he searches for a woman with even lower standards than Snooki.

Jimmy jam

Insiders tell Variety that NBC has lobbied to get Jimmy Fallon the Emmys hosting gig in August. The guy appeals to a young crowd, he does spot-on parodies (his recent take on Kate Gosselin dancing was hilarious) and his Autotune bit at last year's Emmys was great. A fine choice (I still love you, Neil Patrick Harris).

We don't want to know

Apparently America is not itching to learn what wisdom Kate Gosselin imparts to her children. Since its April 13 release, "I Just Want You to Know: Letters to My Kids on Love, Faith, and Family" has sold just 10,084 copies, according to national book sales tracker Bookscan. Wake me when she's gone for good.

BATTLE OF THE JACKIES

The History Channel has announced that Katie Holmes will play Jackie Kennedy (left) in its eight-hour miniseries "The Kennedys." Rachel Weisz, who will play the elegant Kennedy in the film

"Jackie," isn't worried that Holmes will outshine her. "Frankly, I'd be more threatened by Suri," she said, according to New York magazine.

That's the date Kid Rock (left) will host the CMT Awards live from Nashville, according to his website. "All I can promise is I will be awesome," he said on the site.

Handler

You're hired!

Chelsea Handler is making light of her "sex tape." Radaronline.com reported the tape made 10 years ago shows Handler doing a stand-up routine, cuts to her engaging in a sex act and then returns to the comedy routine. "Thanks for ruining my surprise Christmas gift to my staff," Handler said on her E! show Wednesday. "It was made as a joke. I put it on an audition tape for a comedy club because I'm a comedian."

Forte

bought into it in the '80s whenever I would go see any action movie like that. So we tried to just do our version of that." His favorite: "First Blood." "Although, you know, 'Die Hard,' God, that's pretty amazing," Forte added. " 'Lethal Weapon.' God, there are so many movies. 'Uncommon Valor.' 'G.I. Jane.' I'd even throw 'G.I. Jane' in there."

Man of action

"MacGruber" star/co-writer Will Forte says the flick is a nod to the '80s/early '90s action movies he loves. "I am a sucker for them," he told Metromix's Matt Pais. "I so

O'Brien on
'60 Minutes'

O'Brien not holding back

Conan O'Brien takes on Jay Leno in his "60 Minutes" interview Sunday. "He went and took that show back and I think in a similar situation, if roles had been reversed ... I wouldn't have done that. If I had surrendered 'The Tonight Show' and handed it over to somebody publicly and wished them well and then ... six months later. But that's me, you know."

Pratt and Montag

Speidi FAIL

Time magazine has released its 100 most influential people of 2010—and Heidi Montag and Spencer Pratt weren't on it. Instead, the cheeseball couple landed on the mag's least influential list. Joining them were Paula Abdul, U.S. Sen. Roland Burris (D-Ill.) and Stedman Graham. Receiving actual honors were Neil Patrick Harris and Lady Gaga, among others.
